Leaders Ought to Know: Earning the Right to be Heard

The most effective leaders are known and respected for their ability to create and communicate ideas, concepts, strategies & solutions, within their organization. Unfortunately, far too many leaders have never learned the proven processes the best leaders regularly use to capture the imagination, attention and respect of their superiors. This fast-paced, high energy, practical workshop is specifically designed to introduce and prepare interested leaders to not only “get what they want” from the decision making process, but to also “earn the right to be heard” from those who are ultimately charged with making those critical decisions. Participants will walk away from this workshop armed with practical, time-tested information, tools and techniques - and to earn the right to be heard in the process.

Phillip Van Hooser, MBA, CSP, CPAE

Phillip brings a wealth of leadership information, experience & success with him to the platform every time he’s invited to speak. A former H.R. Manager in various Fortune 500 corporate manufacturing operations, Phil learned firsthand and early on the difference between leadership philosophy — and leadership performance. Phil has authored multiple books, including: “You’re Joe’s boy, ain’t ya?": Life’s Lessons for Living, Loving and Leading; Willie’s Way: 6 Secrets for Wooing, Wowing and Winning Customers and Their Loyalty; and We Need To Talk: Building Trust When Communicating Gets Critical Leaders Ought To Know.

Three Main Core Competencies

Interpersonal Skills, Decision Making, Performance/Productivity
