Stepping up to Supervision: How to Increase your Influence with Others

New to the management and leadership game? That can feel overwhelming and even a little scary. This workshop has you covered! It's designed to give individual contributors and new managers practical tools and strategies that will make you a better leader and prepare you for greater future responsibility! It's very hands-on with a mix of powerful interaction, including assessment tools, group activities, role-playing, and thought-provoking training. Give us your contributors, and we'll send them back with strategies that work, mindsets that will move them forward, and skills that will allow them to lead with more ease.
